

Building Community Strength Through Lasting Partnerships

Strength in Vision

The OPS Adopt-A-School (AAS) Partnership Program successfully joins the Omaha Public Schools and civic-minded businesses and organizations in the Omaha community. These lasting partnerships share a dedicated goal of enriching the community through education. It is a dual effort toward success.

Strength in Community

Preparing students for a successful future is a community responsibility. Becoming an AAS partner is an opportunity for businesses and organizations to fulfill this sense of responsibility, while benefiting from an interactive partnership.

The sharing of community resources between a school and a business through the Adopt-A-School Partnership Program effectively closes the gap between needs and solutions. Mobilizing resources in this efficient and effective manner is critical to the total success of a community.

In addition, AAS partners receive the tangible benefits of a strengthened community along with a deep sense of community pride

Strength in Involvement

A notable feature of the Adopt-A-School Partnership Program is its diversity and flexibility. Any business or community organization may apply to become a partner. The adopting organization may choose the school(s) in which it wants to become involved or may choose to be matched to the school(s) that most suits its objectives. The extent of involvement of each adopted school is determined on an individual basis.

Schools available for adoption span from elementary to high schools and geographically extend throughout the Omaha metropolitan area. Schools may work cooperatively with several partners; collectively meeting the needs of the students and businesses. Some organizations may choose to adopt several schools intending to reach a more diverse community of learners

Each partnership is “tailor-made” – mutually benefiting both the adopting organization and the school.
